retro running shoe technology combined with the resurgence has been a while for some time, various sports brands invariably follow, whether it is dedicated to the retro running shoes as the flagship of the NEW BALANCE NIKE Kyo or science and technology have launched a variety of products , and converse with the sports brand has been no significant mountain dew in this regard, but the tide not to be missed, in order to cater to this trend in the autumn and winter this year, Converse launched this new Auckland Racer.

The Auckland Racer previous launch different, in the production process, the designer made a revolutionary adjustment. Using more lightweight shoe body Mesh fabrics, Razer technology compressed into lava sideways Star Chevron Star Arrow logo, streamlined body of the shoe looks more technological sense. The sole requirement is in line with a retro yellow EVA lightweight outsole adding a strong deal with the old (very old .. let me do almost mistakenly think that really took a double old shoes), except for the runners to reduce the weight of the It also creates a unique retro feel of running shoes.
